“ Jimmy was the first boss that I had when I started working for Seagroatt Floral Co. I learned many things by just observing him. One of the most important things was to treat everyone the same. He expected a lot from his employees, but he also was there for us when we needed him. Jimmy was a very special person.

“ There was a time several years back when a young florist was breaking record sales on Wolf Road in Colonie. Much of that success was due to Seagroatt Floral Co. and especially Jim Riccardi. He lit up the room with his presence each time he would stop by the shop and was helpful with good advice and knowledge about the floral industry.

Albany area florist would often comment on the fact that Jim Riccardi was a gentleman with a sincere attitude and a great personality - most likely the greatest personality of our time. We are honored to have known him.
